MERCERIZED COTTON

The process of mercerization consists of immersing the cotton yarn into a bath for the purpose of changing their sections and leveling uneven fibers. The fiber cross-section thus obtains an almost perfect shape. The final material becomes smoother shinier and softer. Mercerization results in higher strength and better color stability of the material.

MERINO

Merino wool is world renowned for its soft, yet firm feel, offering advantages in every area over common wool and many other fibers. The reason for these qualities is the size of an individual fiber – and merino wool fibers are very fine, thinner than 18 microns.

As such, it is used in every area of fashion from haute couture robes to highly functional garments. This natural wool is sheered from the Merino breed of sheep, kept in natural environment (open field), with most of the production comes from Australia, New Zealand and Argentina. Because sheep don't stop growing wool, they need to be sheered every year. Not only is wool a renewable resource, it is also biologically degradable – after you throw it out, it will decompose and provide soil with nutrients.

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF IT

You can use washing machine up to 40°C temperature, making maintenance easy. Of course, we recommend washing inside out and with similar colours. To preserve the shape, avoid drying in direct sunlight and heat, and iron using only steam at medium temperature. If your merino clothing catches a slight odor, just airing it properly should be enough to remove it.

BAMBOO FIBER

Fiber made of bamboo based on regenerated cellulose. It has thermoregulatory, antibacterial, antimycotic and antistatic properties. Bamboo fiber is stronger along with three times higher absorbency than cotton, resistant to frequent washing and keeps its properties for a long time. We do not recommend using fabric softener in order not to reduce absorbency of the material.
